

Disappear: Into Shadow

For countless millennia a race of Angels have walked amongst humanity as Watchers. They brought the secrets of civilization to the world. These never sleeping guardians encourage souls to reach for their destinies and avoid their fates. Disappear: Into Shadow follows a Watcher named Azrael who is dealing with temptation. The former Archangel of Death is a rebel wanted by both Heaven and Hell. Devoted to her duties, she oversees the processes of life and death and leads a choir of other Outcast Watchers who still believe in this current exploration of life on the world. Azrael believes in the evolution of the soul through reincarnation. By overcoming challenges and learning lessons during many different lives, souls can evolve into greater spiritual beings. One of those she watches over, Michael, is on the cusp of making this transition. Until now, she has been controlling her temptation for him. Lately, it has become increasingly difficult. She has always followed Michael across his lives, visiting with him in his dreams and during the times between lives, spending as much time as possible with him. To help in the evolution of souls and life, Azrael and her choir have been smuggling souls out of both Heaven and Hell and freeing them to live again. She believes that both eternal damnation or idle paradise can mean the stagnation of a souls potential. When Hell becomes aware of her activities it beings an active hunt of her choir. Angels of Wrath also pursue her. Souls are an important commodity to places like Heaven and Hell. The world and life exists in cycles. When a cycle of existence has run its course on the world, there is a balancing where life is given a review of its progress to date. The numbers of souls in Heaven and Hell are tallied. Which ever realm holds the most souls will choose whether the world can be shifted more toward the light or into darkness. Will there be more suffering, or less? More challenge, or a simple tranquility? More available wealth, or less? More war, or peace? When the announcement is made that this Balancing is at hand, the powers of good and evil prepare. While Azrael must recruit new members to her choir to weather the coming apocalypse, she gives Michael and his friends Dagan, Simon and Susan the choice to evolve early into Watchers. During this transition, the memories of all of Michael's lives are stolen from him. With Azrael as his guide, they travel through the realms of the spirit until his amnesia becomes apparent to Azrael in dangerous fashion. Meanwhile, a shadowed spirit is plotting to seize control of the world and its souls ahead of the Balancing. Having agents in Heaven, Hell, and in many the fog wreathed places in between worlds, this Shade will come after Azrael and those closest to her. It was Shade who arranged for Dagan to steal Michael's memories. While Azrael smuggles Michael into Heaven to visit with a wise and ancient Angel, Watchers from her choir begin to fall to Shade's agents. As Michael and Azrael become embroiled further in Shade's plans they travel back through different periods of history and discover a trail of ancient artifacts that have been stolen and accumulated for just this purpose. Michael and his friends are not only embroiled in the plot but are at the heart of Shade's nefarious plans to prematurely end all life on the world.
