

Studies in Islamic Mysticism (Forgotten Books)

Sufism is the inner or mystical dimension of Islam. A practitioner of this tradition is generally known as a Sufi though some senior members of the tradition reserve this term for those practitioners who have attained the goals of the Sufi tradition. Another common related denomination is dervish. Classical scholars have defined it as a science whose objective is the reparation of the heart and turning it away from all else but God.: , or a science through which one can know how to travel into the presence of the Divine, purify ones inner self from filth, and beautify it with a variety of praiseworthy traits. :Islamic mysticism is one of the most extensive traditions of spirituality in the history of religions. From its origins in the Prophet Muhammad and the Quranic revelation, the mystical trend among Muslims has played an extraordinary role in the public and private development of the Islamic faith. This variegated movement has spanned several continents over a millennium, at first expressed through Arabic, then through Persian, Turkish, and a dozen other languages. (Quote from wikipedia.org)About the AuthorReynold Alleyne Nicholson (1868 - 1945)Reynold Alleyne Nicholson (or R.A.
