

Loving Gifts from Heaven: Comfort and Counsel from Loved Ones Above

This is a book for those who believe loves bonds aren't broken by death. Afterlife communication from her parents helped heal this author, who was grieving over her father's death. It's a precious gift, and it can be yours as well. Our departed loved ones know we're grieving, but how can they get through to us in ways we recognize? To meet us where we live, they send us many and varied signs of their love, from physical objects left in our path, to appearances in our dreams, to experiences too perfectly timed to be coincidence, and more. Regardless of their form, these gifts are welcome comfort in times of grieving, and joyful expressions of an intact circle of love. The author reveals many signs her parents have sent to show they are still around, what she has learned, and includes Hopeful Hints for better communication. Her goal is to share with others this powerful antidote to the pain of grief that comes with the passing of a loved one. Perhaps you, too, will find that gifts from your departed loved ones are a catalyst not only for coping with their loss, but also for believing in new ideas, and for living life more fully than you even could have imagined.
